NEW QUESTION: 2
Which of the following would provide the STRONGEST encryption?
A. AES with a 256-bit key
B. Random one-time pad
C. DES with a 56-bit key
D. RSA with a 1024-bit key
Answer: B
Explanation:
One-time pads are the only truly completely secure cryptographic implementations.

They are so secure for two reasons. First, they use a key that is as long as a plaintext message. That means there is no pattern in the key application for an attacker to use. Also, one-time pad keys are used only once and then discarded. So even if you could break a one-time pad cipher, that same key would never be used again, so knowledge of the key would be useless.

NEW QUESTION: 3
Which options best describes a Crawl and Audit (Sequential) scan?
A. This scan forces the user to provide all of the site pages by hand via their browser while the audit performs attacks.
B. This scan fully discovers the site structure first, followed by a phase of attacks of the same pages. A recursion setting allows new items discovered in the attack phase to be spidered
further.
C. This scan spiders the website, discovering all links and pages therein.
D. This scan discovers links/pages while attacking the same pages, running with multiple threads. A recursion setting allows new items discovered in the attack phase to be spidered
further.
Answer: B
