NEW QUESTION: 2

Which of the following would describe a type of biometric error refers to as false rejection rate?

A. Type I error

- B. Type II error
- C. Type III error
- D. CER error

Answer: A

Explanation:

When a biometric system rejects an authorized individual, it is called a Type I error.

When a system accepts impostors who should be rejected (false positive), it is called a Type II error.

The Crossover Error Rate (CER), stated in a percentage, represents the point at which false rejection (Type I) rate equals the false acceptance (Type II) rate.

Type III error is not defined and simply a distracter in this case. Some people get trick on this one because they are thinking about Authentication Factors where Biometric is a type III authentication factor.

Beware not to mix authentication factor with biometric errors.

The 3 authentication factors are:

Type 1 Something you know

Type 2 Something you have

Type 3 Something you are
