NEW QUESTION: 2

With software-defined networking (SDN), which two types of network operations are segregated to allow for granularity and delegation of administrative access and functions?

- A. Filtering and firewalling
- B. Filtering and forwarding
- C. Forwarding and protocol
- D. Firewalling and forwarding

Answer: B

Explanation:

With SDN, the filtering and forwarding capabilities and administration are separated. This allows the cloud provider to build interfaces and management tools for administrative delegation of filtering configuration, without having to allow direct access to underlying network equipment.

Firewalling and protocols are both terms related to networks, but they are not components SDN is concerned with.
