NEW QUESTION: 3

View the Exhibit to examine the output produced by the following query at three different times since the database instance started and has experienced workloads of different capacities:

What do you infer from this?

Exhibit:

- A. The database instance is running with manual PGA management.
- B. The database instance has the MEMORY_TARGET value set to a nonzero value.
- C. The database instance is running with manual shared memory management.
- D. All sessions are connected to the database instance in dedicated mode, and no RMAN or parallel query operations have been performed.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

MEMORY_TARGET specifies the Oracle system-wide usable memory. The database tunes memory to the MEMORY_TARGET value, reducing or enlarging the SGA and PGA as needed.

In a text-based initialization parameter file, if you omit MEMORY_MAX_TARGET and include a value for MEMORY_TARGET, then the database automatically sets MEMORY_MAX_TARGET to the value of MEMORY_TARGET. If you omit the line for MEMORY_TARGET and include a value for MEMORY_MAX_TARGET, the MEMORY_TARGET parameter defaults to zero. After startup, you can then dynamically change MEMORY_TARGET to a nonzero value, provided that it does not exceed the value of MEMORY_MAX_TARGET.
