Explanation:
The infinite period Dividend Discount Model claims that the current price of a common stock is equal to D1 / (k - g), where D1 is next period's (most often next year's) dividend, k is the required rate of return, and g is the growth rate of dividends. The earnings multiplier model goes a step further by dividing both sides of the infinite period Dividend Discount Model equation by expected earnings during the next 12 months, yielding P/E = (D1/E) / (k - g). Rearranging this results in D1/E = (P/E) x (k - g). In this question, the expected dividend payout ratio is equal to 17 x (0.17 - 0.13) = 0.68.
